

Nuru Karim

MILAN

by Nuru Karim, principal architect, NU.DE Architecture

The award-winning Karim has previously worked with Zaha Hadid Architects. Inspired by nature, he plucks out a selection of hotspots in Milan. "What draws me to the city is the people's heightened awareness of multi-disciplinary design sensibilities—whether it's in arts, food, travel, fashion or architecture. It is truly a holistic design experience," he says.

MOSSMANIA

With interior products made of Nordic moss—tabletops, lamps, floral arrangements, vertical gardens and even the walls themselves—the natural material takes centre stage at this store. It urges you to bring nature into your indoor spaces, and puts the spotlight on another type of sustainable living. I fully recommend this for the experimental design enthusiast. Mossmania.it

ALESSANDRA BALDERESCHI

The designer has worked with a range of brands, creating everything from jewellery to lighting and furniture. In her designs, she uses natural and aromatic herbs which not only serve as cooking ingredients but also as powerful disinfectants with deodorising qualities. This is a wonderful way of adding colour and pleasing elements to your spaces. Alessandrabaldereschi.com

FABIANO BOUTIQUE

This 17-year-old store, which has its roots as far back as 1264, is a paper workshop with products for office, school and home. While it features avant-garde designs, it's also where you could bump into a range of green products, including its famous paper jewels—beautiful jewellery made from paper. Fabrianoboutique.com
